About us

Our Story

Avian species thrive in national parks, where diverse habitats support both migratory and resident birds. The Everglades in Florida, for instance, is a crucial stopover for migratory birds and is known for its vibrant populations of herons, egrets, and the endangered roseate spoonbill. Parks like Denali in Alaska provide a home for iconic species like the golden eagle and the Arctic tern. National parks are home to a variety of mammals, from the majestic grizzly bear in Yellowstone National Park to the elusive snow leopard in the Himalayas. In the African parks like Serengeti, large herbivores such as elephants, zebras, and wildebeests roam freely, while predators like lions the delicate balance of the ecosystem.
